Seven Beliefs for Mental Wellness (Part 2)

The crux of the book of Philippians in this regard is found in chapter four. It is in this chapter that Paul discusses the action one can take to bring one's self into the peace of God. First, they were to "rejoice in the Lord always" (4:4). The "Lord" here is Jesus. He is the Christian's identity, and it is in Him that he places his absolute faith. The sacrifice of Jesus for our sins defines our worth and proves that nothing is so important in this life as to be a cause for anxiety and depression. This means the Christian has everything for which to be thankful and nothing for which to be ungrateful leading to a perpetual spirit of joy in the presence of the Lord. Value and identity are indispensable principles of psychology. The Christian has his value and identity in Jesus, and that is everything! For this reason, he can rejoice!

Second, Paul says, "Let your moderation be known unto all men" (4:5). The Christian is not to be caught up in the extremes of the world. There is on the one hand the extreme of debauchery in all its forms and practices, and it was prevalent in the Philippian's society as well as ours today. On the other hand, there is the extreme of asceticism. This is the concept that one must cut himself off from everyone and everything that gives any bodily pleasure. Both of these are extreme choices. The Christian must exercise moderation in living a life that includes interaction with society, but does not participate in its sinfulness. Balance is certain one of the fundamental principles of psychology and it is clearly stated in God's word.

God Bless you and I love you.

Glorify God in Your Body

The phrases abound. "you are what you eat". "Garbage in, garbage out." These and others describe the fact that we are products of what we take in around us.

This is true physically. When you eat the easy junk that comes in packages it has been cooked or fried in ways that take away the good and make it bad. These things are closer to poison or contamination than they are things that sustain and give us health. So it is true, if you take in junk you shouldn't be surprised when your body becomes a product of the junk. Even good food can become bad when it is overeaten. Although, you can eat a LOT more of the good stuff than the bad stuff before this happens.

This is true spiritually. "Bad company corrupts good morals," is a Biblical axiom. It means that if you take in the moral poison of others that you will become affected and infected by it. If you aren't careful it can so invade the soul that it will cause you to lose your immortal soul.

Whether it comes to the quality of the food you eat, the diligence of the actions you take to keep yourself fit or any other decision you make relative to your health and wellness it all comes down to one thing. Am I glorifying God and becoming the best person I can become to speak to God's reputation or am I not?

The apostle Paul had some telling things to say about our health and how it pertains to spiritually. He knew as many of us need to learn that giving ourselves over to ANYTHING, food or other wise is sinful and takes away from the examples we should be offering others about having God in our lives.

1 Cor.6:19-20(19) Or do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit who is in you, whom you have from God, and that you are not your own? (20) For you have been bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body.

I've personally been working toward making better decisions for many reason. But none of the other reasons matter worth a hill of beans if God isn't at the top of that list. Let's us all put God at the top of our list!

Dear Church Family, Thank you so much for every expression of love and caring extending to our family. It lifted us up and helped us through a difficult time. It's so comforting to know your brother & sisters in Christ care for you as you so beautifully showed by your actions. I'm so honored to be a part of you. Please continue to keep me in your prayers as I adjust to the days ahead. Thanks again. In Christian Love,
Glenda May & Family.
