Forbidden Words - Curses

The word “curse” has a couple of different meanings, but they are related. On the one hand, there is the idea of cursing someone with a spell like in witchcraft. I don't personally know anyone that does that, although, I have known a few people who claim to be “witches.” The notion is that someone wants to inflict ill fortune on another because of envy, jealousy, revenge, anger, or some other sinful motive. Cursing a person in this way is sinful. Galatians 5:20 lists “sorcery” as one of the works of the flesh. “Sorcery” was the ancient method of using potions to curse other people.

The other idea of the word “curse,” is related to language. We talk about “curse words,” or sometimes colloquialized, “cuss words.” “Cuss” is just another form of “curse.” We have used the word “cuss” as a euphemism for “curse,” since “curse” carries such a negative connotation with it. I doubt anyone really thinks of themselves as uttering curses, though, whether we use the word “cuss” or “curse” it is really the same thing: one is cursing an object, person, or action with one's language. Such cursing is sinful. Consider what James says: “Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be” (James 3:10).

I do not need to list the various curses that people utter. There are many. These words condemn something God has made, but everything that God made was good (Genesis 1). Who are we to condemn the good things that God has made? Euphemisms of these words are no better. They are just veiled curses. Jesus said, “But I say to you that for every idle word men may speak, they will give account of it in the day of judgment” (Matthew 12:36). Please, don't curse.

God bless you, and I love you.

The Final Sacrifice

"Who Himself bore our sins in His own body on the tree, that we, having died to sins, might live for righteousness." 1 Peter 2:24

I don't like to really clean. Instead, I would rather put something over a mess so that I don't have to look at it. That is sort of the way I clean things. In contrast, when my wife cleans, she really cleans. I think she actually enjoys the process, which is a mystery to me. I like things clean, but I don't like the process of cleaning.

In the Old Testament, God established that the sins of individuals would be symbolically transferred to an animal that would die in his or her place (see Leviticus 1--8). This atoning sacrifice was necessary to meet the righteous demands of a holy and just God. The word atonement can be translated to say, "a covering" or "to cover over something." While this atonement provided covering, it didn't get to the root of the problem. But Jesus Christ's death on the cross did. His atoning sacrifice washed away, eliminated, and wiped out all of our sins.

Jesus was the fulfillment of all that the Old Testament pointed toward. He became the final sacrifice. Jesus was "the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world" (John 1:29).

When Jesus uttered the words, "It is finished," it could also be translated, "It is made an end of." Or, "It is paid." Or, "It is performed." Or, "It is accomplished."

What was made an end of? Our sins and the guilt that accompanied them. What was paid? The price of our redemption. What was performed? The righteous requirements of the law. What was accomplished? The work the Father had given Him to do.
